Notes on concordance table

The Survey of Employment, Payrolls and Hours is now producing its estimates based on the North American Industrial Classification System 2002 (NAICS 2002). In order to assist users in the transition from the NAICS 1997 to the NAICS 2002, a concordance table between the two classifications has been produced.

The first percentage shown in the concordance table (% NAICS 97) represents the percentage of NAICS 1997 employment portion migrating to the corresponding NAICS 2002. In the example below, this percentage is seen in column E and is calculated by dividing column C by column A.

The second percentage shown in the concordance table (% NAICS 2002) represents the percentage of «NAICS 1997 employment migrating to the corresponding NAICS 2002 divided by the total employment of this NAICS 2002». In the example below, this percentage is seen in column F and is calculated by dividing column C by column D.

This table was produced using the employment annual averages for the year 2002 for Canada. Should you have questions, please contact client services of the Labour Statistics Division.
